Large Openings

The plans of the new viaduct call for a plate girder bridge as the superstructure and although not ornamental in design will be plain and inoffensive. TWO TAX BILLS READY FOR VOTE OF LEGISLATURE

PROGRESSIVES SPLIT ON REPEAL OF PERSONAL PROPERTY OFFSET; WILL HOLD PUBLIC HEARINGS

Madison, Wis., Jan. 26—Two big tax measures will be offered in both houses of the legislature within the next few days. The administration bill will be offered by Senator H. J. Severson, Iola, and will modify the present income tax laws; repeal the mill taxes but will not provide for the repeal of the personal property offset.

Repeal Sur Taxes

"Two tentative tax bills are under consideration," said the conference committee of progressive republicans in a statement issued Friday morning. "One tentative bill will be a straight income tax, raising the sum of $6,500,000 and repealing the sur-taxes or mill taxes of $5,500,000 and the sur tax for the teachers' retirement fund making the amount to be raised equal to the amount that has heretofore been raised under the mill taxes and sur tax, thereby reducing the tax on real and personal property $5,500,000.

"This bill does not amend or modify the present normal income tax law and therefore does not repeal the personal property offset. The rates under this bill will commence on the higher incomes, thereby in effect, establishing a higher exemption.

Offset Done Away With

"The other tentative bill increases the present normal income tax, in round numbers, $6,500,000 annually, and repeals the mill taxes on real and personal property and the sur tax on incomes for the teachers' retirement fund.

"In order to relieve real and personal property from the $5,500,000 mill taxes, the bill will provide for 50 per cent of the normal income tax to be paid into a state fund, together with approximately $1,000,000 for the teachers' retirement fund, annually. This bill repeals the personal property offset.

"Exemptions to the head of the family and for children will be increased. Both bills are designed to replace $5,500,000 and to get away from enactment of a number of sur tax income laws.

Redistribute Burden

"Neither bill raises the total amount of tax to be paid. They merely redistribute the burden. Further reduction in real and personal property taxes will be brought about through a bill providing for financing the state trunk highways."

Governor Blaine's statement declared that upon these two bills public hearings will be immediately held. There will probably be joint sessions of the finance and tax committees to consider the measures. The secrecy repeal bill has already been presented by Senator H. J. Severson and will not become a part of either of the measures. It is likely that Speaker John L. Dahl may present the combination bill in the lower house which provides for adjustment of taxes and for a repeal of the personal property offset.

Spirit Of Former Days America's Greatest Need

That America's great need today is a return to the spirit and idealism that led the knights of mediaeval times to devote their lives to "God, King and Lady," that prompted Columbus to brave the unknown on the voyage that resulted in the discovery of America, and that dominated the lives of our forefathers, who were willing to suffer and die, if need be, in the battle for temporal and spiritual freedom, was the message of Dr. R. M. Frawley of Wausau, delivered before the local council, Knights of Columbus, at the Catholic Societies Hall last night.

Condemns Socialism

Dr. Frawley urged upon his hearers that there could be no real remedy for the faults of the present day without a return to the days of plainer living and higher thinking. He condemned Socialism and other modern movements, which he said were based purely on materialism, and hence could never prove to be a real solution of the ills of the day.

"We must get back to the first Cause and start anew," he asserted. "We must get back to God."

Need Old Spirit

"We must get back to the days of our forefathers, at least back to the spirit that prompted those three million of the best men and bravest women the world ever had to challenge the mysteries of the unknown sea and land in the new world, and who were willing to suffer and die in the battle for liberty, both spiritual and temporal. We must get back to the spirit of the Great Columbus, who under the guidance of Divine Providence discovered the only spot on earth where a "Government, of the people, by the people, and for the people," could be established and maintained untrammeled by the trappings of aristocracy and uncursed by the fallacious doctrine of the inherited and divine right of kings to rule."

(By Associated Press)

General Patrick has described the advances in aviation in a talk on the "automatic air service."

The automatic service has been so developed, Gen. Need Old Spirit

"We must get back to the days of our forefathers, at least back to the spirit that prompted those three million of the best men and bravest women the world ever had to challenge the mysteries of the unknown sea and land in the new world, and who were willing to suffer and die in the battle for liberty, both spiritual and temporal. We must get back to the spirit of the Great Columbus, who under the guidance of Divine Providence discovered the only spot on earth where a "Government, of the people, by the people, and for the people," could be established and maintained untrammeled by the trappings of aristocracy and uncursed by the fallacious doctrine of the inherited and divine right of kings to rule."

Announce Development Of Radio Bombing Plan

(By Associated Press)

Boston, Mass., Jan. 26—A bomb air service that needs no pilot has been developed, Major General Mason M. Patrick, head of the army air forces, announces in a series of addresses during a two days visit here.

General Patrick has described the advances in aviation in a talk on the "automatic air service."

The automatic service has been so developed, Gen. Patrick asserts, that even now it would be possible to send a pilotless plane with a cargo of bombs from a certain point at a given altitude on a set course, and at a prearranged speed, which at a given time and pre-arranged place, would discharge the devastating cargo. The plane, he explained, would be operated by radio.

A conference of Federal, State and county officers to consider means for the better enforcement of the prohibition laws in Missouri will be held in St. Louis today.

Grant Refuses To Recant; May Face Trial For Heresy

(By Associated Press)

New York, Jan. 26—Churchman were not agreed as to whether the refusal of the Reverend Percy Stickney Grant, rector of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Ascension, to recant his belief that Christ when on earth did not have the power of God, would result in a trial for heresy.

He was handed a note by Bishop T. Manning in which he criticised Rev. Grant for his pulpit utterances.

Rev. Grant in a formal reply to Bishop Manning last night, neither recanted nor offered to resign. Instead he restated his belief regarding the divinity of Christ and defended his views with the declaration that the teachings of the bible must be interpreted in the light of the new era.

He argued his views at length in defense of his pulpit speeches and quoted many authorities to support his decision.

Two Slightly Injured When Car Turns Turtle

W. H. Adelberg of Chicago was burned about the eyes and nose and badly bruised and W. J. Poehlman of LaCrosse was bruised and cut when the Ford coupe driven by Adelberg in which the two were proceeding toward Stevens Point skidded on the icy road near the Wm. Moll farm about three miles east of the city yesterday afternoon and turned turtle.

A local physician was called and the two men were brought back to this city and departed for their homes by rail after their injuries had been treated. The car, which was not seriously damaged, was left at a local garage for repairs.

The burns on Adelberg's face were apparently caused by hot oil dripping out of the engine.

Volstead Attacks Kellar For Impeachment Charges

Washington, Jan. 25—A vicious attack on Representative Keller, Republican of Minnesota, author of impeachment charges against Attorney General Daugherty, was made today in the House by Chairman Volstead of the Juliciary committee which investigated the charges last month.

In a carefully prepared address the committee chairman told the House that "Keller and his henchmen" knew that from the first they had no evidence on which to base the impeachment.

He charged also that from the first the Minnesota representative had "persistently treated the committee in an insolent manner."

HOSTILITIES END BUT POPULACE IS STILL RESTLESS

STRIKES CONTINUE TO SPREAD, TYING UP MINES; FRENCH MAY PUNISH DUESSELDORF POLICE, REPORT

(By Associated Press)

Essen, Germany, Jan. 26—Normal conditions so far have followed the demonstrations and rioting of last evening but the unrest is steadily increasing. The railroad strike continues effective throughout the entire valley and navigation is at a stop on the Rhine between Wesel and Cologne.

In addition, coal miners are straggling out of the pits in various sections, until now some 150,000 mine workers are idle.

Nineteen Arrested

Nineteen arrests were made in Duesseldorf in consequence of last night's affray and General De Goutte has announced that the German security police will be severely punished for failure to maintain peace and order.

On the other hand the General has congratulated the Essen police for the effective assistance they afforded the French patrols in quieting observances here.

Troops Clear Streets

Duesseldorf, Jan. 26—Desultory firing which was in progress in various parts of the city throughout the night, ceased when French cavalry and infantry patrols cleared the streets at midnight. Duesseldorf was outwardly calm.

Two Germans were reported wounded during the course of the disturbance which started early in the evening when mobs celebrated simultaneously the return of Fritz Thyssen and a two hour protest strike. That more persons were not hurt was due to the fact that the sentries and patrols were ordered to fire into the air and only shoot to kill should the demonstration go too far.

EVERYBODY PAYS

Much is said about the new state income tax and the fact that it is going to make the rich dig deep and long into their jeans to pay the costs of the Wisconsin government. As far as we can see it, it is going to make pretty steep paying for some of the people who don't class themselves as rich and who by their income can't be called rich. There are a good many people in Wisconsin who pay taxes on a basis of $2,000 a year net taxable income. Yes there are thousands of such people, enough almost to elect a governor. Such an income is not uncommon in this or any state and that takes in skilled workmen, contractors, farmers, salaried clerks and all thru the various classifications. And said man with $2,000 net taxable income owns his automobile on which he pays a personal property tax of $25.00 or rather as assessed. Now he pays the greater of the two, one offsetting the other. The repeal of the personal property offset provides that said $2,000 a year man will pay both his $25.00 personal property tax and the like amount on his income.

The rich fellow can pay his taxes and not feel it but we wonder how the man with the $2,000 net income and the automobile will feel when he checks out twice what he formerly did. And there are a lot of those fellows. The proposed income tax is going to make everyone shell out more than in former years and according to the dope it is going to the state in larger sums than ever before, the municipalities and the counties taking a split on what the state leaves for them. The tax bills are not passed yet and probably will not be passed for some weeks. In the mean time the tax plans will probably be cleared up somewhat because there seems to be considerable confusion among the legislators as to what the new tax legislation is really going to be.

THE COOKING SCHOOL

The Tribune wishes to repeat the cordial invitation extended to the women of the city and county to attend the Free Cooking School which is to be held in the Moose Hall on Grand avenue four days commencing Thursday afternoon Feb. 5th. We can reiterate, assure all women that it will be an interesting event and will be well worth their while to attend at least one of the four days. There will be nothing sold at this school. All talks and demonstrations will be absolutely free and the purpose of the school is positively educational. That does not mean it will not be interesting. On the contrary there will be music and other attractions which will make it a success.

We are pleased to announce that there are several other concerns competing to make the school a success and invitations from others participating in the school will be issued [illegible] the time of the school.

Please take this as a cordial invitation.

THE REV. DR. GRANT

Most of the clergy of the Christian churches in America go their way quietly, preaching the gospel and exerting their influence for good. Occasionally one as in the case of the Rev. Dr. P. S. Grant of New York City [illegible] something that gives a sensational turn and attracts temporarily far more notice than its importance deserves.

Christianity is founded firmly on faith in Christ as the Son of God. All through the ages men have arisen who doubt this teaching, will draw attention to themselves on their personality or their independent views, but the effect of their careers has always died with them. It is not at all surprising that here and there should be found a member of the clergy who loses faith in Christianity. Men are vain. They like to think of themselves as discoverers of original truth. Far greater men than Dr. Grant have taken this course in the past, others will do it in the future, but it does not matter. With or without its Dr. Grants, Christianity will go on just the same—the salvation of men and the light and civilization of the world.—Stevens Point Journal.

Movie Film Will Show Wild Life Of Badger State

Madison, Wis.—School children of Wisconsin are going to have an opportunity to see the wild life of the state. The state conservation commission today announced that upwards of 2,000 feet of movie film has been completed and is now starting a tour of the state, opening in Milwaukee.

The conservation movie shows the activities of the three departments; game, fisheries, and timber and will be accompanied by F. D. Upson, Cornell, special lecturer for the Commission.

Lesson In Conservation

"We are going to show the children of this state the reason for conservation," said Commission Brayton O. Webster. "They will see every operation in the hatching of fish, how young trees are grown and planted to replace those cut, and how we must preserve the game life if we are to maintain it for the future.

"An educational film of this sort is worth more than fifty deputies some time in the future. While the film is not entirely complete it will be finished within a few days and when we have finished showing in Milwaukee schools Mr. Upson will accompany it on a tour of the state."

Over a year has been spent in obtaining the film for this picture. Certain parts of the film are seasonal in nature and enforced a delay while other scenes of wild life taken in the woods took many patient hours of work to obtain.

Dual Rule Over Marinette Jail Brought To End

Marinette, Wis.—With the withdrawal of John H. Doberstein, former sheriff of Marinette county jail here Tuesday, Marinette County's dual sheriff administration, extending over a period of 22 days, came to an end. A signed order, handed down in circuit court by Judge O. M. Fritz, Milwaukee, calling on Doberstein to surrender the office and jail to the sheriff-elect, Oscar Dahl, Peshtigo ex-serviceman, was taken by the former law enforcement officer as final.

Marinette was the only county out of eight that was allowed to hold a special election after its November sheriff election was held illegal. This right was extended the northern county because of its previous steps which made an election possible by January.

Knocking on the door of the county jail early on Jan. 1st., Dahl was told by Doberstein that the election was illegal and that he would refuse to surrender the jail, Dahl, however, returned when Doberstein was out and climbing through the basement window entered the cell section of the jail. When the sheriff returned to the jail he was locked out of the cell section by Dahl.

With the sheiff elect in one section of the jail and the former sheriff in another the law of Marinette county was carried out both refusing to surrender his possession until the decision by Judge Fritz.

Pete Morrison's Great Waterfall Scene Affords One of Silversheet's Biggest Thrills
Pete Morrison's sensational waterfall scene in "Daring Danger" has been acclaimed as one of the mightiest scenes ever photographed for a motion picture production. Critics and those that know have stated that it takes its place with the great ice scene from "Way Down East" and the log-jam scene enacted by Priscilla Dean in "Conflict."
After a thrilling combat with a band of cattle thieves, Morrison is pushed into the river and is carried with the tide to the edge of the waterfall. He makes the fall and rushes over with the heavy flow of water, making a jump of the entire depth of the waterfall. This is followed by a stirring swim to the shore.

EVERYBODY PAYS

Much is said about the new state income tax and the fact that it is going to make the rich dig deep and long into their jeans to pay the costs of the Wisconsin government. As far as we can see it, it is going to make pretty steep paying for some of the people who don't class themselves as rich and who by their income can't be called rich. There are a good many people in Wisconsin who pay taxes on a basis of $2,000 a year net taxable income. Yes there are thousands of such people, enough almost to elect a governor. Such an income is not uncommon in this or any state and that takes in skilled workmen, contractors, farmers, salaried clerks and all thru the various classifications. And said man with $2,000 net taxable income owns his automobile on which he pays a personal property tax of $25.00 or rather as assessed. Now he pays the greater of the two, one offsetting the other. The repeal of the personal property offset provides that said $2,000 a year man will pay both his $25.00 personal property tax and the like amount on his income.

The rich fellow can pay his taxes and not feel it but we wonder how the man with the $2,000 net income and the automobile will feel when he checks out twice what he formerly did. And there are a lot of those fellows. The proposed income tax is going to make everyone shell out more than in former years and according to the dope it is going to the state in larger sums than ever before, the municipalities and the counties taking a split on what the state leaves for them. The tax bills are not passed yet and probably will not be passed for some weeks. In the mean time the tax plans will probably be cleared up somewhat because there seems to be considerable confusion among the legislators as to what the new tax legislation is really going to be.

THE COOKING SCHOOL

The Tribune wishes to repeat the cordial invitation extended to the women of the city and county to attend the Free Cooking School which is to be held in the Moose Hall on Grand avenue, four days commencing Tuesday afternoon Feb. 5th. We can definitely assure all women that it will be an interesting event and will be well worth their while to attend at least one of the four days. There will be nothing sold at this school. All talks and demonstrations will be absolutely free and the purpose of the school is positively educational. That does not mean it will not be interesting. On the contrary there will be music and other attractions which will make it a success.

We are pleased to announce that there will be several other concerns cooperating to make the school a success and invitations from others participating in the school will be issued between now and the time of the school.

Please take this as a cordial invitation.

THE REV. DR. GRANT

Most of the clergy of the Christian churches in America go their way quietly, preaching the gospel and exerting their influence for good. Occasionally, as in the case of the Rev. Dr. P. S. Grant of New York City, a churchman does a sensational thing and attracts temporarily far more notice than its importance deserves.

Christianity is founded firmly on faith in Christ as the Son of God. All through the ages men have arisen who doubt this teaching, winning attention to themselves on their personality or their independent views, but the effect of their careers has always died with them. It is not at all surprising that here and there should be found a member of the clergy who loses faith in Christianity. Men are vain. They like to think of themselves as discoverers of original truth. Far greater men than Dr. Grant have taken this course in the past, others will do it in the future, but it does not matter. With or without its Dr. Grants, Christianity will go on just the same—the salvation of men and the light and civilization of the world.—Stevens Point Journal.

Light on the Shirt Question

If you've never bought an Eagle Shirt, try one. Put it on before the mirror. Notice how it sets across the shoulders. See the full easy drape to the waist. Move back from the glass to take in the extra length. Look at the center-plait that runs to the bottom. Count the buttons—six, not five. Examine the double-rowed stitching of the seams—how fine it is.

If these things please, assure yourself of the same fit and workmanship by buying Eagle Shirts every time—the same things plus long-wearing, fast-dyed, exclusive fabrics, each individually named for your convenience.

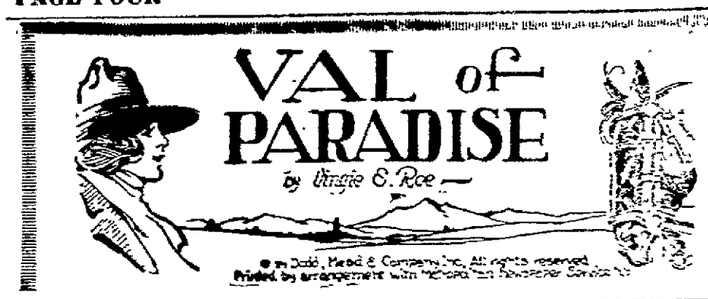
The Home of Low Prices



Today, as the men steadily lost to Bridenan, a shadow darkened the door and a girl stood there. She leaned gracefully against the lintel and smiled, her little head tilted sidewise like a bird's, her black eyes roving over every face there with a bold bright glance. She was clad in gay garments of scarlet and black, with a sash of striped silk that hung to her knee at the left, after it had most saucily wound her slender waist in a wide, tight girdle.

At the sound of her light foot at the sill the players looked up—Bridenan with a leer and a laugh and a pointed compliment, the cowboys with that lively interest which all their ilk feel in women-kind, but Paul Sanchez with a black scowl, for she was his daughter.

"Lolo," he said sharply, "go home—pronto."

But she only leaned more comfortably against the doorpost and smiled at the men.

"Lolo likes company," said Bridenan boisterously, "and why shouldn't she, shut up in this forsaken town? Tell me that. Come watch us play, little one," he coaxed, turning his great face toward the door.

But Sanchez was on his feet, his dark face flaming. He lifted an imperious finger and pointed north, and the girl, with a last sidewise glance and a pout, slipped gracefully off the step and disappeared.

Sanchez sat down again, picked up his cards and called for a draw coolly, but there was fire in his black eyes.

And now, as if he lost command of his usually sane judgment, he lost the last of his gold and rose with a bow, his cards thrown on the table.

"Your pleasure, gentlemen," he said. "Drink with me, if Hunnewell will trust me."

Hunnewell behind his worn old bar trusted any one. Moreover he knew that Sanchez was only temporarily broke. So the players left the table with much noise of scraping chairs and jingling spurs and lined up for the fiery refreshment which would have floored a stranger.

And Lolo, swinging down the little street beneath the elms and cottonwoods, her slim brown hands on her narrow hips, her black head high with offended dignity, stopped short to stare with wide eyes to where the open road led in from the sage-brush plain.

A great dust was on the level, for many horses ran there, fleet horses, she knew, for they poked their dark noses ahead of the dust, even though the wind, blowing with a keen freshness, was behind them.

Lolo turned back to watch the oncoming cloud of dust with its potentialities. It came with an increasing sound of thunder, with the rattle and creak of chain and saddle, and presently a band of men rode into the end of the sleepy street and pounded down its length toward Hunnewell's.

Movie Film Will Show Wild Life Of Badger State

Madison, Wis.—School children of Wisconsin are going to have an opportunity to see the wild life of the state. The state conservation commission today announced that upwards of 2,000 feet of movie film has been completed and is now starting a tour of the state, opening in Milwaukee.

The conservation movie shows the activities of the three departments; game, fisheries, and timber and will be accompanied by F. D. Upson, Cornell, special lecturer for the Commission.

Lesson In Conservation

"We are going to show the children of this state the reason for conservation," said Commission Brayton O. Webster. "They will see every operation in the hatching of fish, how young trees are grown and planted to replace those cut, and how we must preserve the game life if we are to maintain it for the future.

"An educational film of this sort is worth more than fifty deputies some time in the future. While the film is not entirely complete it will be finished within a few days and when we have finished showing in Milwaukee schools Mr. Upson will accompany it on a tour of the state."

Over a year has been spent in obtaining the film for this picture. Certain parts of the film are seasonal in nature and enforced a delay while other scenes of wild life taken in the woods took many patient hours of work to obtain.

Dual Rule Over Marinette Jail Brought To End

Marinette, Wis.—With the withdrawal of John H. Doberstein, former sheriff of Marinette county jail here Tuesday, Marinette County's dual sheriff administration, extending over a period of 22 days, came to an end. A signed order, handed down in circuit court by Judge O. M. Fritz, Milwaukee, calling on Doberstein to surrender the office and jail to the sheriff-elect, Oscar Dahl, Peshtigo ex-serviceman, was taken by the former law enforcement officer as final.

Marinette was the only county out of eight that was allowned to hold a special election after its November sheriff election was held illegal. This right was extended the northern county because of its previous steps which made an election possible by January.

Knocking on the door of the county jail early on Jan. 1st., Dahl was told by Doberstein that the election was illegal and that he would refuse to surrender the jail, Dahl, however, returned when Doberstein was out and climbing through the basement window entered the cell section of the jail. When the sheriff returned to the jail he was locked out of the cell section by Dahl.

With the sheiff elect in one section of the jail and the former sheriff in another the law of Marinette county was carried out both refusing to surrender his possession until the decision by Judge Fritz.

Pete Morrison's sensational waterfall scene in "Daring Danger" has been acclaimed as one of the mightiest scenes ever photographed for a motion picture production. After a thrilling combat with a band of cattle thieves, Morrison is pushed into the river and is carried with the tide to the edge of the waterfall. He makes the fall and rushes over with the heavy flow of water, making a jump of the entire depth of the waterfall. This is followed by a stirring swim to the shore.

M. J. Powers Sole Owner Of Nekoosa Concern

M. J. Powers, senior member of the firm which has controlled and operated the Nekoosa Motor and Machine Co. since its establishment in 1915, has bought out the other partners, it was announced today, and is now the sole owner. Mr. Powers has also acquired for himself and members of his family al lof the stock of the Nekoosa Iron Works.

Both institutions, Mr. Powers stated today, will continue to operate under the same names and with the same policies as in the past.

PROSPERITY BASED ON DIVERSITY OF BADGER INDUSTRY

WIDE RANGE OF ACTIVITIES IN STATE IS SAFEGUARDED AGAINST HARD TIMES AND FAILURES

Madison, Wis.—Wisconsin owes its stability to the diversified character of its industries, Earl Williams, [illegible] expert, official tax adviser for the Wisconsin Bankers association, told at a meeting of the Committee of Wisconsin Highway Commissioners in the assembly chamber of the capitol Wednesday night.

[illegible] authority made the announcement early in 1922 that during the previous year there had been 21 bank failures in Minnesota, 22 in Iowa, 31 in Illinois, 37 in Nebraska, 27 in Montana, [illegible] and 67 in North Dakota. Mr. Williams said.

Bank Failures Tell Story

"This compilation of figures showed that during that year of 1921, which is the year of greatest business depression throughout the United States, that [illegible] banks failed in every state lying west of the Mississippi river except the state of Wisconsin, and in this Badger state during that year not one bank closed its doors.

"As it is generally known, [illegible] the average bank failure the [illegible] condition of a community it is certainly a remarkable tribute to Wisconsin to consider that during that period of extreme financial depression when banks were failing in large numbers in every state in the entire northwest that the internal conditions of commerce could go on on such a stable basis that not one banking house failed.

Supervision Not Cause

"Other states besides Wisconsin have very close state supervision of banks so that the fact of failures in Wisconsin as compared with other states cannot be attributed to lack of bank laws elsewhere. There is just one fundamental reason why Wisconsin stands out in the way of wonderful business stability and that is because this state has more diversity of business activity than any other state in the north west.

Bank Diversity

"Wisconsin [illegible] farming and manufacturing [illegible] other northwest states but in none of these activities Wisconsin has more diversity than any other state can be compared with her. In addition Wisconsin possesses [illegible] other great business activity [illegible] of these [illegible] and that is the tourist and recreation business.

"This article [illegible] the greatest direct [illegible] advertising of any city in the United States no matter what its size. Past expenditures in years gone by has made Milwaukee famous for the product of beer, but there is one soap factory in Milwaukee the Palmolive company which last year sold three-fourths of all the toilet soap in the United States and Canada, and its total product was almost as much as the entire product of all the Milwaukee breweries the great year of the brewery industry."

MRS. HARRIS GIVES FACTS ABOUT CASE

Declares Tanlac Completely Overcame Indigestion, Dizziness, Palpitation and Weakness.

"Tanlac has built me up to perfect health and I couldn't be happier if I had drawn a valuable prize," declared Mrs. Anna Harris, 62nd and Cottage Sts., Milwaukee, Wis.

"For a long time my health and strength gradually failed me and I was subject to such terrible dizzy spells and pains in my head I would have to lie down. I suffered horribly from indigestion, shortness of breath and my heart palpitated so I was frightened. I didn't dare eat fried food, and coffee and tea were things I couldn't touch. I could get no restful sleep and I just dragged around while trying to do my housework.

"It only took two bottles of Tanlac to change everything for me. My appetite is now so fine foods I couldn't eat before now nourish me splendidly, and my strength has come back so my housework is no trouble at all. It would take pages to tell all the good things I could say about Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all druggists. Over 35 million bottles sold [illegible]

Today, as the men steadily lost to Brideman, a shadow darkened the door and a girl stood there. She leaned gracefully against the lintel and smiled, her little head tilted sidewise like a bird's, her black eyes roving over every face there with a bold bright glance. She was clad in gay garments of scarlet and black, with a sash of striped silk that hung to her knee at the left, after it had most saucily bound her slender waist in a wide, tight girdle.

At the sound of her light foot at the sill the players looked up—Brideman with a leer and a laugh and a pointed compliment, the cowboys with that lively interest which all their ilk feel in womenkind, but Paul Sanchez with a black scowl, for she was his daughter.

"Lolo," he said sharply, "go home—pronto."

But she only leaned more comfortably against the doorpost and smiled at the men.

"Lolo likes company," said Brideman, boisterously, "and why shouldn't she, shut in this forsaken town? Tell me that. Come watch us play, little one," he added, turning his great face toward the door.

But Sanchez was on his feet, his dark face flaming. He lifted an imperious finger and pointed north, and the girl, with a last sidewise glance and a pout, slipped gracefully off the step and disappeared.

Sanchez sat down again, picked up his cards and called for a draw coolly, but there was fire in his black eyes.

And now, as if he lost command of his usually sane judgment, he lost the last of his gold and rose with a bow, his cards thrown on the table.

"Your pleasure, gentlemen," he said. "Drink with me, if Hunnewell will trust me."

Hunnewell behind his worn old bar trusted any one. Moreover he knew that Sanchez was only temporarily broke. So the players left the table with much noise of scraping chairs and jingling spurs and lined up for the fiery refreshment which would have floored a stranger.

And Lolo, swinging down the little street beneath the elms and cottonwoods, her slim brown hands on her narrow hips, her black head high with offended dignity, stopped short to stare with wide eyes to where the open road led in from the sage-brush plain.

A great dust was on the level, for many horses ran there, fleet horses, she knew, for they poked their dark noses ahead of the dust, even though the wind, blowing with a keen freshness, was behind them.

Lolo turned back to watch the oncoming cloud of dust with its potentialities. It came with an increasing sound of thunder, with the rattle and creak of chain and saddle, and presently a band of men rode into the end of the sleepy street and pounded down its length toward Hunnewell's.

PALACE TONIGHT AND TOMORROW

Tonight is "Gift Night" at your Palace, we have three fine prizes to you free, and in "Daring Danger" Pete Morrison Wins Additional Spurs By His Daring and Speed

"Daring Danger" the story with the "punch" and human appeal was purchased by Cliff Smith as soon as he read it.

As he was enjoying the great suspense and human emotions he had one man in mind who would live the character as originated in the story of the great outdoors. Pete Morrison was that man. Mr. Smith sent for him and Morrison after reading the story signed a contract to play the stellar role.

But Morrison was busy and Mr. Smith decided to wait two months so that Morrison could play the part. The cowboy of the screen and the wonderful lover within two months was busily engaged in the west coast studio portraying the hero in "Daring Danger."

Through force of circumstance, disqualified by the father of the girl that he hopes to marry, he arises manfully from the cloak of suspicion that envelopes him. The manner of his getaway from a gang of outlaws and cattle thieves whom the U. S. Government has delegated him to capture, is an old trick amongst the old school of cow-puncher who enjoyed life in the glorious west of the olden days, but a new one for the many movie fans who will see "Daring Danger." His riding will excite a thrill even to the old timers.

Rapid action is carried out in his great ride for assistance, the great fight and final scenes when the tangle is unwoven and his name is cleared and Horton successfully gains the blessing and consent of the father to marry the girl he loves.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY

We have placed one of Goldwin's big new specials for your entertainment.

We have had heart appeal in mother pictures, such as Goldwyn's production of "The Old Nest," and now comes an equally sympathetic story of the father of a family in "Remembrance," Goldwyn's newest super-feature which is being presented for two days.

It is a remarkable picture, unlike anything heretofore attempted on the screen, and is bound to interest all classes and ages of theatre goers.

The reception accorded "Remembrance" at its first showing in Minneapolis proves beyond a doubt that Rupert Hughes, the author and director of the picture, has struck upon a popular theme. "Poor Old Dad" is the hero of this story and all the sympathy goes to him as he toils to meet the demands of his extravagant family. The mother is a social climber and so are the sons and daughters, but Dad retains his simple tastes. The struggle to make his income met the ever increasing demands of the family is too much for him and he suffers an illness that almost causes his death.

But Dad, just when his illness reaches a crisis, decides that he can't afford to die, so he starts to get well. And by this time the family has learned a lesson. Dad isn't going to be over-worked any more, he is going to have time to enjoy life a little and the family is going to stop deluging him with bills. Claude Gillingwater, who plays the father, proves himself to be one of the finest character actors on the screen, and for the rest, Goldwyn has assembled an extraordinarily good cast, including such favorites as Patsy Ruth Miller, Cullen Landis, Richard Tucker and Kate Lester.

PROSPERITY BASED ON DIVERSITY OF BADGER INDUSTRY

WIDE RANGE OF ACTIVITIES IN STATE IS SAFEGUARDED AGAINST HARD TIMES AND FAILURES

Madison, Wis.—Wisconsin owes its stability to the diversified character of its industries, Burt Williams, tax expert, official tax advisor for the Wisconsin Bankers association, said at a meeting of the Convention of Wisconsin Highway Commissioners in the assembly chamber of the capitol Wednesday night.

"A well known financial authority made the announcement early in 1922 that during the previous year there had been 21 banks that failed in Minnesota; 32 in Texas; 31 in Iowa; 23 in Illinois; 37 in Nebraska; 27 in Montana; 52 in Oklahoma and 67 in North Dakota," Mr. Williams said.

Bank Failures Tell Story

"His complete list of figures showed that during that year of 1921, which was the time of great business depression throughout the United States, that from 23 to 75 banks had failed in every state bordering on the Mississippi river except the state of Wisconsin, and in this Badger state during that year not one bank had closed its doors.

"As it is generally understood that the average bank reflects the business condition of a community it is certainly a remarkable tribute to Wisconsin to consider that during that period of extreme financial depression when banks were failing in large numbers in every state in this entire northwest that the internal conditions of common wealth were on such a stable basis that not one banking institute failed.

Supervision Not Cause

"Other states besides Wisconsin have very close state supervision of banks so that the lack of failures in Wisconsin as compared with other states cannot be attributed to lack of bank laws elsewhere. There is just one fundamental reason why Wisconsin stands out in the way in wonderful business stability and that is because this state has more diversity of business activities than any other state in the northwest.

Bond On Diversity

"Wisconsin is a great agricultural and a manufacturing state as are other northwest states but in both of these activities Wisconsin has more diversity than any state that can be compared with her. In addition, Wisconsin possesses still another great business activity that many of these middle west states do not have at all and that is the tourist and recreation business.

"Milwaukee claims to have the greatest diversity of manufacturing of any city in the United States no matter what its size. Past expression in years gone by has made Milwaukee famous for the product of beer, but there is one soap factory in Milwaukee the Palmolive company which last year sold three-fourths of all the toilet soap in the United States and Canada, and its total product was almost as much as the entire product of all the Milwaukee breweries the great year of the brewery industry."

MRS. HARRIS GIVES FACTS ABOUT CASE

Declares Tanlac Completely Overcame Indigestion, Dizziness, Palpitation and Weakness.

"Tanlac has built me up to perfect health and I couldn't be happier if I had drawn a valuable prize," declared Mrs. Anna Harris, 62nd and Cottage Sts., Milwaukee, Wis.

"For a long time my health and strength gradually failed me and I was subject to such terrible dizzy spells and pains in my head I would have to lie down. I suffered dreadfully from indigestion, shortness of breath and my heart palpitated so I was frightened. I didn't dare eat fried food, and coffee and tea were things I couldn't touch. I could get no restful sleep and I just dragged around while trying to do my housework.

"It only took two bottles of Tanlac to change everything for me. My appetite is now so fine foods I couldn't eat before now nourish me splendidly, and my strength has come back so my housework is no trouble at all. It would take pages to write all the good things I could say about Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all druggists. Over 35 million bottles sold.—Adv.

Coming — Free Cooking School In This City Week Of February 5th

All women interested in modern cooking methods and new ideas in food combinations will be glad to learn of the cooking school to be put on by the Tribune each afternoon for four days beginning Tuesday, Feb. 6th in the Moose hall, Grand Ave. formerly Princess Hall.

The lessons will be given by a Home Economics Expert of wide experience, who has taught the art of good cooking for many years. She is Miss Elsie Hinkley, a graduate of Home Economics from Lewis Institute. She is the lecturer in charge and will be assisted by Miss Pauline Farr, graduate in Home Economics from Stout Institute. Both are now connected with the Department of Food Economics of Corn Products Refining Company.

All Phases of Cooking

The lectures will cover every phase of cookery from the finest cakes to delicious pies and salads. Each afternoon from two until four thirty o'clock there will be first a lecture on some particular phase of cookery or food studies, and then a demonstration illustrating the points brought out.

The Tribune feels that in conducting this school for the benefit of the housewives of this community they are giving them a real treat, for both Miss Hinkley and Miss Farr are considered two of the best lecturers in this line of work. From reports from other towns where they have been conducting schools, we know the women of our town will be delighted with the opportunity to gain expert instruction without cost to them.

Miss Hinkley gives her instructions in such a simple manner that anyone can become a splendid cook by following the easy methods so carefully and thoroughly described by her, and we consider ourselves fortunate in being able to make arrangements with the Corn Products Refining Company to have her come to us at this time.

Lectures on Diets

There will be lecturers on proper diets for every member of the family—what each one should eat and why. Special stress is laid on food requirements for growing children, but the women folks are not neglected either, and there will be many suggestions for simple, home dishes, as well as concoctions for parties and festive occasions.

"Quicker ways of doing things" is Miss Hinkley's motto, and we are sure every woman who comes to the lectures will appreciate her suggestions during the hot days of the coming summer.

Positively Free

Remember, the classes are absolutely free. That they are held every afternoon from two until four thirty o'clock, in the Moose Hall. The classes will start promptly at 2:00, and it is urged that the women be on time at each session so as to lose none of the work so generously given.

Miss Hinkley has asked that each woman bring her note book and pencil so that she can jot down the recipes and suggestions during the lecture.

State Will Aid Defense Of Minimum Wage Law

Madison, Wis.—That Wisconsin will enter the defense of the constitutionality of the minimum wage law, now pending in the United States Supreme Court, was indicated Friday by Attorney General Herman L. Ekern. Mr. Ekern has applied for leave to appear as a friend of the court on behalf of this state at the direction of Governor John J. Blaine.

Constitutionality of a minimum wage law is now pending in the highest tribunal on appeal from the District of Columbia. The act was held constitutional in the lower court and so affirmed by the Court of Appeals. Later when another judge was appointed the law was declared unconstitutional. The case is now before the Supreme Court of the United States.

The case is set for argument on February 26th and the state Industrial Commission is now engaged upon preparing a brief on the facts as seen in this state.

1923 Legislature Behind Schedule Of 2 Years Ago

Madison, Wis., Jan. 26—The 1923 legislature is behind its predecessor of 1921. Two years ago today Gov. Blaine signed the first bill passed by the 1921 legislature.

It is not probable that Governor Blaine will have the opportunity to sign the first bill of this session for nearly another week. It will be the appropriation bill of $5,200 for the current expenses incurred by the joint committee on finance.

Submits Bill To State For Damage By Skunks

Chippewa Falls, Wis.—A bill for $103.75 for alleged damages to his hen roost by skunks was sent to Assemblyman J. D. Millar by a farmer living near Colfax. The damages are claimed from the state because skunks are protected by law and they got in their nefarious work through the legal inability of the farmer to shoot them. The bill is perfectly valid, according to Assemblyman Millar, but he fears that skunk claims may grow to bothersome proportions.

MARY PICKFORD COMES TO THE IDEAL'S BARGAIN NIGHT

Twelve years ago Mary Pickford and King Baggot [illegible] a "melodrama" [illegible] called "Going Straight," at that time Mary wore a black wig and was terribly tragical in every action, while King—well, no matter what had happened in the past or how much the police "wanted" him, he was "Going Straight." Well, some one at the studio found the negative; saw the possibilities, wrote some clever subtitles and—lo and behold, here is about the funniest comedy you ever saw and the management of The Ideal secured it for you and the entire family to laugh heartily at when you come tonight to see the Goldwyn film version of Arnold Bennett's fine play "Milestones." All this with a thrilling chapter of Art Acord's serial story of the uplanking of the west "In the Days of Buffalo Bill," and at matinee prices. And as to the Pickford picture, if you miss this classic gem of ancient filmdom you will miss not only a hearty laugh but will not half so well realize the tremendous strides which the motion picture art has taken during the past decade. "Going Straight" alone is worth the admission price.

"HOOT" GIBSON IS SATURDAY'S ATTRACTION AT THE IDEAL

Everybody likes the jolly round face on "Hoot" Gibson, and everyone who enjoys western pictures at all likes the offerings in which this star appears so that "The Galloping Kid" will undoubtedly meet with an enthusiastic reception from all the kids, small and large in and around The Rapids. It is a characteristic Saturday outdoor program with plenty of humor interspersed with the action. With it is one of "Our Gang" comedies, a new 2-reeler put out by Pathe which are very funny indeed. "One Terrible Day" is the name of this one and finally there is Big Bill Desmond in "Perils of the Yukon." The matinee from 2 to 5 ought to be attractive to a lot of people with time on their hands.

THOMAS MEIGHAN'S LATEST IS IDEAL'S SUNDAY OFFERING

"Back Home and Broke" is not only the latest of the Thomas Meighan Paramount features and is still playing the neighborhood houses in Chicago, but the critics acclaim it also as his best—fully as good as "The Bachelor Daddy." This is the offering at Gruwell's Ideal Theater Sunday and Monday, with the usual matinee Sunday afternoon from 2:30 to 5, and the Wisconsin Rapids Sextet at night. It is shown with a News and a Felix Cat Comedy at no increase in admission prices altho' it is much newer than the usual film shown here.

PALACE TONIGHT AND TOMORROW

Tonight is "Gift Night" at your Palace, we have three fine prizes to you free, and in "Daring Danger."

Pete Morrison Wins Additional Spurs By His Daring and Speed

"Daring Danger" the story with the "punch" and human appeal was purchased by Cliff Smith as soon as he read it.

As he was enjoying the great suspense and human emotions he had one man in mind who would live the character as originated in the story of the great outdoors. Pete Morrison was that man. Mr. Smith sent for him and Morrison after reading the story signed a contract to play the stellar role.

But Morrison was busy and Mr. Smith decided to wait two months so that Morrison could play the part. The cowboy of the screen and the wonderful lover within two months was busily engaged in the west coast studio portraying the hero in "Daring Danger."

Through force of circumstance, disqualified by the father of the girl that he hopes to marry, he arises manfully from the cloak of suspicion that envelopes him. The manner of his getaway from a gang of outlaws and cattle thieves whom the U. S. Government has delegated him to capture, is an old trick amongst the old school of cow-puncher who enjoyed life in the glorious west of the olden days, but a new one for the many movie fans who will see "Daring Danger." His riding will excite a thrill even to the old timers.

Rapid action is carried out in his great ride for assistance, the great fight and final scenes when the tangle is unwoven and his name is cleared and Horton successfully gains the blessing and consent of the father to marry the girl he loves.

SUNDAY AND MONDAY

We have placed one of Goldwin's big new specials for your entertainment.

We have had heart appeal in mother pictures, such as Goldwyn's production of "The Old Nest," and now comes an equally sympathetic story of the father of a family in "Remembrance," Goldwyn's newest super-feature which is being presented for two days.

It is a remarkable picture, unlike anything heretofore attempted on the screen, and is bound to interest all classes and ages of theatre goers.

The reception accorded "Remembrance" at its first showing in Minneapolis proves beyond a doubt that Rupert Hughes, the author and director of the picture, has struck upon a popular theme. "Poor Old Dad" is the hero of this story and all the sympathy goes to him as he toils to meet the demands of his extravagant family. The mother is a social climber and so are the sons and daughters, but Dad retains his simple tastes. The struggle to make his income met the ever increasing demands of the family is too much for him and he suffers an illness that almost causes his death.

But Dad, just when his illness reaches a crisis, decides that he can't afford to die, so he starts to get well. And by this time the family has learned a lesson. Dad isn't going to be over-worked any more, he is going to have time to enjoy life a little and the family is going to stop deluging him with bills. Claude Gillingwater, who plays the father, proves himself to be one of the finest character actors on the screen, and for the rest, Goldwyn has assembled an extraordinarily good cast, including such favorites as Patsy Ruth Miller, Cullen Landis, Richard Tucker and Kate Lester.

WHELAN MEASURE SEEKS UNIFORMS FOR SPEED COPS

DISTINCTIVE GARB FOR MOTORCYCLE OFFICERS NEEDED TO PROTECT TOURISTS, IS CLAIM

Madison, Wis., Jan. 26—Motorcycle traffic police of Wisconsin [illegible] a distinctive uniform over the state, a bill introduced in the assembly on Friday by Assemblyman D. A. Whelan of Mondovi.

Assemblyman Whelan declares that during the past summer there have been numerous instances where tourists have been imposed upon and even held up and robbed by men on motorcycles impersonating traffic police. He believes the requirement of a standard uniform for this class of officers will prevent this imposition in the future.

Would Buy Beloit Park

In the upper house, Senator A. F. Garey, Edgerton, introduced a $50,000 appropriation measure to establish a state park four miles north of Beloit on the state line road between Illinois and Wisconsin.

The proposed park would have an area of close to 70 acres located on a heavily timbered hill overlooking the Rock river. Senator Garey declared that the southern part of the state was without a state park and that this area located advantageously for tourists and residents alike, should be established as a state park. A similar bill was vetoed by Gov. Blaine two years ago.

Protection for Taxes

Senator J. L. Barber, Marathon, introduced a bill aimed to further the new industry of raising silver back foxes in this state. With upwards of two dozen ranches already in operation in all parts of the state, the Barber bill would give them added protection.

Under the terms of this measure trespassing on an established fox ranch would be subject to a severe penalty; no trapping would be allowed within a radius of three miles of a ranch; and stray dogs on ranch property might be shot on sight.

Hold Patients Guilty

Patients would be held equally guilty with physicians in cases of illegal operations under a second bill by Senator Barber.

Plan Dedication

Three members of the legislature have been appointed to take charge of arangements for the formal dedication of the medallion of the late Dr. Charles McCarthy, former head of the legislative reference library. Senator Max Heck, Racine, Assemblyman C. E. Hanson, Pierce county, and Assemblyman J. D. Miller of Dunn county will take charge of the arangements for the ceremony which will be held at two next Tuesday afternoon.

Sir Horace Plunkett, noted Irish statesman and a close friend of Dr. McCarthy, has been invited to deliver the dedication speech.

Gopher Manager Will Point Road To Prosperity

St. Paul.—A. J. McGuire, manager of the Minnesota Cooperative Creameries' association, will meet with Wisconsin farmers and editors January 29—February 3 to tell them what the buttermen of the north star are doing to regain prosperity.

Although the Gopher state association is scarcely two years old, it has accomplished remarkable things. Today it has more than 350 member creameries enrolled. They are shipping about 62 carloads of butter a week to eastern markets. The first year a saving in freight alone amounted to more than $150,000. Over 50,000 patrons are represented in the organization.

McGuire is a "jumper" from the word "go". In fact, he broke into the creamery game years ago via the journalistic route. Born and raised on a Minnesota farm, young McGuire found himself with an inborn urge to fight. He journeyed here one day determined to annex a world's championship.

Leave Fight Game

But he met, in his first encounter the bitter sting of defeat. Broken-hearted, dejected and penniless he looked for other worlds to conquer—at least he looked for a job. He [illegible] upon T. L. Hi[illegible] a Dane county Wi[illegible] then near of the dairy [illegible] the Minnesota College of Agriculture. Hoecker looked at McGuire [illegible] and was immediately struck with an idea.

"Can you milk?" he asked sharply.

"Sure", came the reply from the Gaze. And he got a few milking cows in the university dairy herd. He later worked his way through the agriculture college and for many years was affiliated with the dairy department of the college.

With his fighting blood up, McGuire is coming to Wisconsin to help Badgerites form a plan for Mendota. Slogan—the Farmers' Way Out.

A campaign to wipe out partisanship in the election of judges will be launched at the midwinter meeting of the Ohio State Bar Association opening in Columbus today.

High School Five Confident Of Win Over Marshfield

The Lincoln high school basketball team will take the floor against Marshfield tonight in top condition and with excellent prospects of victory according to Coach A. Ritchay. The local quintet will undoubtedly be [illegible] Lincoln have been working out so well at the guard position that it is not considered that the [illegible] will be rather [illegible] on Saturday.

Wisconsin Rapids has always held a jinx over Marshfield on the local floor but it is thought this year the visitors seem to have a decided edge over the Lincoln quintet five as far as comparative scores indicate anything. Ritchay's men are confident that they will succeed in putting over a victory.

Whatever may the result the game should be the best of the season when [illegible] promises to be one of the [illegible] basketball contests.

Marshfield Coming With Expectations Of Victory

"You can say for me if you like that we are coming down with the intention of bringing home the bacon, as we figure that we are a whole lot better than you people expect," writes Fred Reths, manager of the Marshfield basket ball team which meets the Tri-Cities Sunday afternoon to Manager Fred Ragan of the local aggregation.

Reths also writes that Eaton will be with Marshfield sure, and that the rest of the lineup will be selected from Huber, Nuhlicek, Nimes, Wall, Pope, Ferrando, and Kuehl.

While most of the above named outfit hasn't for the most part ever appeared in any basketball hall of fame, Manager Reths is making a big mistake if he thinks that the Tri-Cities fail to realize that they will have a real job on their hands Sunday. The team has been working out regularly this week, and should be ready to put up the toughest battle of the season.

The head of the house often gets cold feet.

BILL INTRODUCED FOR BUREAU OF ANIMAL INDUSTRY

MEASURE SUBMITTED YESTERDAY WOULD DO AWAY WITH PRESENT LIVESTOCK SANITARY BOARD

Madison, Wis.—Abolition of the present livestock sanitary board and the creation of a bureau of animal industry to consist of three members two of whom shall be ex-officio was proposed in a bill offered by Assemblyman Charles W. Hutchison, Mineral Point, Thursday.

It is understood that the bill was drafted by Dr. William Smith, well known veterinarian of southern Wisconsin. The two exoffico members of the bureau of animal industry which will be created would be the commissioner of agriculture and the secretary of the statehood of health. The third member would be appointed by the governor for a five year term at a salary of $1,000 a year.

Move Primary Ahead

Assemblyman J. C. Hanson, offered his bill on Thursday, providing for the holding of the regular primary election in the middle of August.

Other assembly bills introduced were:

Goodman—Drive-wheels of tractors must be protected by suitable fenders.

Otto—Bank dividends shall be subject to income taxation.

F. J. Peterson—Title guarantee companies shall be compelled to file articles with the commissioner of insurance upon organization.

Matheson—Limiting the divorce counsel law at Milwaukee, unless counties shall provide for the same by county board resolutions.

C. E. Hanson—No offset to incomes on withheld taxes.

Barker—Audit of income taxes shall extend back to 1915.

Assemblyman Caldwell introduced a resolution memorializing congress to submit an amendment to the federal constitution which shall prohibit the insurance of any more tax-exempt securities by federal, state or local governments. Thirty million dollars in tax exempt securities are now outstanding, and each year an additional bill of exempt securities is added.

Short Senate Session

A five minute session of the senate sufficed for that body Senator Huber's unemployment bill was the only measure introduced.

Coming — Free Cooking Sch ool In This City Week Of February 5th

All women interested in modern cooking methods and new ideas in food combinations will be glad to learn of the cooking school to be put on by the Tribune each afternoon for four days beginning Tuesday, Feb. 6th in the Moose hall, Grand Ave. formerly Princess Hall.

The lessons will be given by a Home Economics Expert of wide experience, who has taught the art of good cooking for many years. She is Miss Elsie Hinkley, a graduate of Home Economics from Lewis Institute. She is the lecturer in charge and will be assisted by Miss Pauline Farr, graduate in Home Economics from Stout Institute. Both are now connected with the Department of Food Economies of Corn Products Refining Company.

All Phases of Cooking

The lectures will cover every phase of cookery from the finest cakes to delicious pies and salads. Each afternoon from two until four thirty o'clock there will be first a lecture on some particular phase of cookery or food studies, and then a demonstration illustrating the points brought out.

The Tribune feels that in conducting this school for the benefit of the housewives of this community they are giving them a real treat, for both Miss Hinkley and Miss Farr are considered two of the best lecturers in this line of work. From reports from other towns where they have been conducting schools, we know the women of our town will be delighted with the opportunity to gain expert instruction without cost to them.

Miss Hinkley gives her instructions in such a simple manner that anyone can become a splendid cook by following the easy methods so carefully and thoroughly described by her, and we consider ourselves fortunate in being able to make arrangements with the Corn Products Refining Company to have her come to us at this time.

Lectures on Diets

There will be lecturers on proper diets for every member of the family—what each one should eat and why. Special stress is laid on food requirements for growing children, but the women folks are not neglected either, and there will be many suggestions for simple, home dishes, as well as concoctions for parties and festive occasions.

"Quicker ways of doing things" is Miss Hinkley's motto, and we are sure every woman who comes to the lectures will appreciate her suggestions during the hot days of the coming summer.

Positively Free

Remember, the classes are absolutely free. That they are held every afternoon from two until four thirty o'clock, in the Moose Hall. The classes will start promptly at 2:00, and it is urged that the women be on time at each session so as to lose none of the work so generously given.

Miss Hinkley has asked that each woman bring her note book and pencil so that she can jot down the recipes and suggestions during the lecture.

State Will Aid Defense Of Minimum Wage Law

Madison, Wis.—That Wisconsin will enter the defense of the constitutionality of the minimum wage law, now pending in the United States Supreme Court, was indicated Friday by Attorney General Herman L. Ekern. Mr. Ekern has applied for leave to appear as a friend of the court on behalf of this state at the direction of Governor John J. Blaine.

Constitutionality of a minimum wage law is now pending in the highest tribunal on appeal from the District of Columbia. The act was held constitutional in the lower court and so affirmed by the Court of Appeals. Later when another judge was appointed the law was declared unconstitutional. The case is now before the Supreme Court of the United States.

The case is set for argument on February 26th and the state Industrial Commission is now engaged upon preparing a brief on the facts as seen in this state.

1923 Legislature Behind Schedule Of 2 Years Ago

Madison, Wis., Jan. 26—The 1923 legislature is behind its predecessor of 1921. Two years ago today Gov. Blaine signed the first bill passed by the 1921 legislature.

It is not probable that Governor Blaine will have the opportunity to sign the first bill of this session for nearly another week. It will be the appropriation bill of $3,200 for the current expenses incurred by the joint committee on finance.

Submits Bill To State For Damage By Skunks

Chippewa Falls, Wis.—A bill for $103.75 for alleged damages to his hen roost by skunks was sent to Assemblyman J. D. Millar by a farmer living near Colfax. The damages are claimed from the state because skunks are protected by law and they got in their nefarious work through the legal inability of the farmer to shoot them. The bill is perfectly valid, according to Assemblyman Millar, but he fears that skunk claims may grow to bothersome proportions.

The Game That Everyone Has Been Waiting For

SUNDAY, JANUARY 28TH, 1923, AT 3:00 O'CLOCK

MARSHFIELD —vs— TRI-CITIES

Marshfield has bolstered up its team in the last three weeks, and are planning on making it pretty lively for the Tri-Cities. They have such men as Pope, Wahl and Eaton, who are known throughout Wisconsin as topnotchers, also Huber and Reeths.

ARRANGEMENTS HAVE BEEN MADE FOR OVER 1000 SEATS

Marshfield is about the only team holding the Tri-Cities from claiming the Central, Northern and Western Wisconsin Championship.

The Tri-Cities lineup will be as follows: Stark, Plahner, Bill Smith, Ritchay and Hill. If Marshfield wins this game, they will have a real job on their hands.

Joe Swetland Will Referee the Game

WHELAN MEASURE SEEKS UNIFORMS FOR SPEED COPS

DISTINCTIVE GARB FOR MOTORCYCLE OFFICERS NEEDED TO PROTECT TOURISTS, IS CLAIM

Madison, Wis., Jan. 26—Motorcycle traffic police of Wisconsin must wear a distinctive uniform under the terms of a bill introduced in the assembly on Friday by Assemblyman D. A. Whelan of Mondovi.

Assemblyman Whelan declares that during the past summer there have been numerous instances where tourists have been imposed upon and even held up and robbed by men on motorcycles impersonating traffic police. He believes the required wearing of a standard uniform for this class of officers will prevent this imposition in the future.

Would Buy Beloit Park

In the upper house, Senator A. F. Garey, Edgerton, introduced a $50,000 appropriation measure to establish a state park four miles north of Beloit on the state line road between Illinois and Wisconsin.

The proposed park would have an area of close to 70 acres located on a heavily timbered hill overlooking the Rock river. Senator Garey declared that the southern part of the state was without a state park and that this area located advantageously for tourists and residents alike, should be established as a state park. A similar bill was vetoed by Gov. Blaine two years ago.

Protection for Taxes

Senator J. L. Barber, Marathon, introduced a bill aimed to further the new industry of raising silver back foxes in this state. With upwards of two dozen ranches already in operation in all parts of the state, the Barber bill would give them added protection.

Under the terms of this measure trespassing on an established fox ranch would be subject to a severe penalty; no trapping would be allowed within a radius of three miles of a ranch; and stray dogs on ranch property might be shot on sight.

Hold Patients Guilty

Patients would be held equally guilty with physicians in cases of illegal operations under a second bill by Senator Barber.

Plan Dedication

Three members of the legislature have been appointed to take charge of arangements for the formal dedication of the medallion of the late Dr. Charles McCarthy, former head of the legislative reference library. Senator Max Heck, Racine, Assemblyman C. E. Hanson, Pierce county, and Assemblyman J. D. Miller of Dunn county will take charge of the arangements for the ceremony which will be held at two next Tuesday afternoon.

Sir Horace Plunkett, noted Irish statesman and a close friend of Dr. McCarthy, has been invited to deliver the dedication speech.

Gopher Manager Will Point Road To Prosperity

St. Paul.—A. J. McGuire, manager of the Minnesota Cooperative Creameries' association, will meet with Wisconsin farmers and editors January 29—February 3 to tell them what the butternen of the north star are doing to regain prosperity.

Although the Gopher state association is scarcely two years old, it has accomplished remarkable things. Today it has more than 350 member creameries enrolled. They are shipping about 62 carloads of butter a week to eastern markets. The first year a saving in freight alone amounted to more than $180,000. Over 50,000 patrons are represented in the organization.

McGuire is a "scrapper" from the word "go", in fact he broke into the creamery game years ago via the pugilistic route. Born and raised on a Minnesota farm, young McGuire found himself with an inborn desire to fight. He journeyed here one day determined to annex a world's championship.

Leave Fight Game

But he met, in his first encounter the bitter sting of defeat. Broken-hearted, dejected, and penniless he looked for other worlds to conquer—at least he looked for a job. He chanced upon T. L. Haecker, at one time a Dane county Wisconsin farmer, but then head of the dairy department at the Minnesota College of Agriculture. Haecker looked at McGuire's big fists and was immediately struck with an idea.

"Can you milk?" he asked sharply.

"Sure", came the reply from McGuire. And he got a job milking cows in the university dairy herd. He later worked his way through the agriculture college and for many years was affiliated with the dairy department of the college.

With his fighting blood up, McGuire is coming to Wisconsin to help Badgerites form a plan for Merchandising—the Farmers' Way Out.

A capaign to wipe out partisanship in the election of judges will be launched at the midwinter meeting of the Ohio State Bar Association opening in Columbus today.

High School Five Confident Of Win Over Marshfield

The Lincoln high school basketball team will take the floor against Marshfield tonight in top condition and with excellent prospects of victory according to Coach A. Ritchay. The loss of Greiner will undoubtedly be felt, but Glass and Laramie have been working in so well at the guard position that it is not considered that the team's chances of copping are seriously endangered.

Wisconsin Rapids has always held a jinx over Marshfield on the local floor, and although this year the visitors seem to have a decided edge over the Lincoln high five as far as comparative scores indicate anything, Ritchay's men are confident that they will succeed in putting over a victory.

Win or lose, the game should be the best of the high school season, and promise to bring out a big crowd of basketball enthusiasts.

Marshfield Coming With Expectations Of Victory

"You can say for me if you like that we are coming down with the intention of bringing home the bacon, as we figure that we are a whole lot better than you people expect," writes Fred Reths, manager of the Marshfield basket ball team which meets the Tri-Cities Sunday afternoon to Manager Fred Ragan of the local aggregation.

Reeths also writes that Eaton will be with Marshfield sure, and that the rest of the lineup will be selected from Huber, Nuhlicek, Ninas, Wall, Pope, Ferrando, and Kuehl.

While most of the above named outfit hasn't for the most part ever appeared in any basketball hall of fame, Manager Reths is making a big mistake if he thinks that the Tri-Cities fail to realize that they will have a real job on their hands Sunday. The team has been working out regularly this week, and should be ready to put up the toughest battle of the season.

The head of the house often gets cold feet.

BILL INTRODUCED FOR BUREAU OF ANIMAL INDUSTRY

MEASURE SUBMITTED YESTERDAY WOULD DO AWAY WITH PRESENT LIVESTOCK SANITARY BOARD

Madison, Wis.—Abolition of the present livestock sanitary board and the creation of a bureau of animal industry to consist of three members two of whom shall be ex-officio was proposed in a bill offered by Assemblyman, Charles W. Hutchinson, Mineral Point, Thursday.

It is understood that the bill was drafted by Dr. William Smith, well known veterinarian of southern Wisconsin. The two exoffico members of the bureau of animal industry which will be created would be the commissioner of agriculture and the secretary of the statehoard of health. The third member would be appointed by the governor for a four year term at a salary of $4,000 a year.

Move Primary Ahead

Assemblyman J. C. Hanson, offered his bill on Thursday, providing for the holding of the regular primary election in the middle of August.

Other assembly bills introduced were:

Goodman—Drive-wheels of tractors must be protected by suitable fenders.

Ott—Bank dividends shall be subject to income taxation.

F. J. Peterson—Title guarantee companies shall be compelled to file articles with the commissioner of insurance upon organization.

Matheson—Limiting the divorce counsel law at Milwaukee, unless counties shall provide for the same by county board resolutions.

C. E. Hanson—No offset to incomes on withheld taxes.

Barker—Audit of income taxes shall extend back to 1915.

Assemblyman Caldwell introduced a resolution memorializing congress to submit an amendment to the federal constitution which shall prohibit the insurance of any more tax-exempt securities by federal, state or local governments. Thirty million dollars in tax exempt securities are now outstanding, and each year an additional bill of exempt securities is added.

Short Senate Session

A five minute session of the senate sufficed for that body Senator Huber's unemployment bill was the only measure introduced.

The oldest arm chair in the world is the throne of Queen Hatafus, who flourished in Egypt 1600 years B. C. It is made of ebony and beautifully carved. It is now among the treasured possessions of the British Museum.

The Kentucky Female Orphan School in Louisville, founded seventy—five years ago, is said to be the oldest Protestant orphan school for girls in the United States.
